We want you to know

- You are safe to be open and out about your gender identity, sexual orientation or intersex status.
- You don't have to tell us about your gender identity, sexual orientation or intersex status, but be open with your needs.
- We will accept and respect your affirmed gender and use the pronouns you identify with.
- We will strive to make sure any referrals we make on your behalf are to services or organisations that are LGBTIQ friendly.
- No-one at Mallee Sexual Assault Unit Inc. Mallee Domestic Violence Services can make a homophobic, transphobic or intersexist comment to you, or discriminate against you in any way.
- A staff member will intervene if they see, or hear, you are being treated unfairly and will check that you're okay.
- If you experience homophobia, transphobia or intersexist you can make an official complaint that will be investigated.
- You can talk to any staff member if you have questions or concerns about any of this.
